OVERVIEW

Fatou Calixte represents clients in complex commercial litigation, including land use and property rights as well as administrative law matters.

During law school, Fatou served as a Legislative Fellow for the Health & Human Services Committee of the Florida House of Representatives, where she provided bill analysis for proposed legislations and tracked bills as they went through committees. She was also a Judicial Extern for the Northern District of Florida Division of Administrative Hearings. Fatou worked as a law clerk in our Tallahassee office for two years while pursuing her J.D.

Prior to her legal career, Fatou worked for several years in various financial services roles.
